

THE GOLD STANDARD · BY HANNAH GOLDY

HANNAH'S 10 RULES FOR BUILDING LEAN MUSCLE

Tape them to your bathroom mirror

01 Strength training is the foundation.

Muscle growth requires consistent resistance training. Your workouts should challenge your muscles regularly.

02 Progressive overload drives results.

To build muscle, your body must continue adapting. Gradually increase weight, reps, or training intensity over time.

03 Eat enough to grow.

Your body needs sufficient calories and nutrients to support muscle repair and growth.

04 Prioritize protein.

Protein provides the building blocks for muscle growth. Aim to include a quality protein source in each meal.

05 Train hard, but recover harder.

Muscle growth occurs during recovery. Prioritize sleep, hydration, and rest between workouts.

06 Consistency beats intensity.

Training consistently over time produces better results than short bursts of extreme effort.

07 Don't fear carbohydrates.

Carbohydrates provide energy for training and support recovery, making them an important part of a muscle-building diet.

08 Focus on form and control.

Proper technique improves muscle activation and reduces the risk of injury.

09 Be patient with the process.

Muscle growth takes time. Stay consistent and trust the process.

10 Build habits you can maintain for life.

The goal isn't just to build muscle for a few months — it's to create a lifestyle that keeps you strong and healthy long-term.