EATING GUIDE — FIGHTER CONDITIONING

Performance fuel, snacks & hydration

WHAT A FULL DAY OF EATING MIGHT LOOK LIKE

MEAL	EXAMPLE
Breakfast	Eggs, oatmeal, and fruit
Lunch	Grilled chicken, rice, and vegetables
Snack	Greek yogurt with berries
Dinner	Salmon, sweet potatoes, and vegetables
Post-workout	Protein shake or cottage cheese

BEST FOODS FOR ENERGY AND RECOVERY

- ◆ Lean meats and fish · eggs · whole grains · peanut butter · sweet potatoes · whole grain pasta / quinoa · fruits and vegetables · nuts and seeds · healthy oils.
- ◆ Carbohydrates are your friend — they fuel training energy. Highly processed foods and excessive sugar should generally be limited.

HANNAH'S RECOMMENDED SNACKS

- ◆ Greek yogurt with fruit
- ◆ Protein shakes
- ◆ Rice cakes with banana and peanut butter
- ◆ Cottage cheese
- ◆ Strawberries with chocolate hummus
- ◆ Almonds
- ◆ Dates

HYDRATION & ELECTROLYTES

- ◆ High-intensity training demands extra attention to hydration and electrolyte balance.
- ◆ Hannah's habit: mix electrolytes into a big water bottle every morning and carry it everywhere (she loves the Rocket Pop Liquid IV).
- ◆ Hydrate aggressively on conditioning days. Bring electrolytes to your sessions.

IF YOU FEEL CONSTANTLY FATIGUED

- ◆ Your body may need additional recovery: increase calories slightly · improve sleep quality (consistent bed/wake time) · take a rest day · drink more water and add electrolytes.
