FIGHTER CONDITIONING

The 12-Week Training Program

Fighters train differently than traditional athletes. The goal is not just to build muscle or lose fat — it's to develop a body that is strong, explosive, well-conditioned, and capable of performing under pressure. This program combines strength training, explosive power movements, high-intensity conditioning, core stability, and athletic endurance.

WEEKLY TRAINING SPLIT

MONDAY — STRENGTH & POWER

WEDNESDAY — CONDITIONING ROUNDS

FRIDAY — FIGHTER CIRCUIT

SATURDAY (OPTIONAL) — CONDITIONING

HOW TO READ THE WORKOUTS

- ◆ Rounds mean a series of exercises done back-to-back, then rest, then repeat.
- ◆ Intervals are time-based: "30 seconds hard, 60 seconds easy" means alternating those two intensities.
- ◆ Strength sets: 90 seconds to 2 minutes between heavy lifts. Conditioning rounds: rest as prescribed (usually 60 to 120 seconds between rounds).

THE FIGHTER'S MINDSET

Training like a fighter requires discipline and mental toughness. Most of these workouts will feel challenging — that's part of the process. The goal is not just to finish the workout, it's to develop the resilience and conditioning that comes from pushing your limits and getting comfortable being uncomfortable.

Every exercise in this program has a video demonstration in the Exercise Library inside your member area. Check your form any time.
